INTERVIEW A RETURNEE FROM ABROAD WHO HAS DECIDED TO SPEND THE REST OF HIS/HER LIFE IN NEPAL DOING SOMETHING MEANINGFUL. ASK HIM/HER WHY HE/SHE RETURNED TO NEPAL AND WHAT HE/SHE HAS PLANNED TO DO IN THE FUTURE.

The total number of Nepales around 2019 estimated to be around 4-5 million. Most are temporary migrants working in several countries including in the middle east malaysia, Korea, Cyprus and Japan.

I have taken an interview with an NRN person who was settled in America since 2001.

Anand: How can the diaspora contribute to Nepal's development?

Arun: The temporary migrant group working abroad for a defined period of times, sends money as remittance to Nepal. Remittance is a critical component of Nepal's national income. It occupies almost 30% of the Gross domestic product. USA also sends large amount of remittance to Nepal. Which contributes in development sectors.

Anand: How has the NRNA contributed to defend right of the Nepalese diaspora?

Arun: NRNA has worked hard in lobbying for the NRN citizenship which was finally enshrined in the Nepali constitution of 2015. NRNA has presented the objectives rights to acquire dual citizenship including the protection of the interest and rights of the diaspora. NRNA has also focused in helping Nepal through investment, knowledge and technology transfer, tourism promotion and several other means.

Anand: Nepal has been taking about the need to utilize the talent and resources of non residential Nepales. What step has the Nepal government taken?

Arun: The Government of Nepal has been a solid partner of NRNA an many fronts. In the forum of Brain gain center. The experts present new ideas, research findings and recommend appropriate policies for science, technology, energy and other areas that can work in Nepal. The government of Nepal has also created useful regulations related to the Non-resident Nepalese and supported Nepalese in need in the Gulf countries.

Ananda: What are the problems Nepalese. Diaspora have been facing?

Arun: First of all they are paid low wages, their labour rights are marginal, and their safety and protection at work is often compromised. If injuries no compensation is provided. They are persecuted in various ways, such as language, culture and living standard as well. They want to connect to Nepal with NRN citizenship, and seek ease of travel and owning properties in Nepal. Some diaspora members living in the western countries face domestic violence, safety work place and alienation.

Ananda: What do you think about cross culture trend may exploit the originality of its real flavour in the tradition?

Arun: I think these are temporary phenomenon towards a better adjustment. But they can't omit their own ancestral culture, somehow they mixed with the assimilation new diasporic culture emerging out. But our third generation will completely forget our own native culture.

Ananda: Do you have anything to tell to the migrant from Nepal?

Arun: We migrate for knowledge, skill and technology. If we import new technology and invest in Nepal. No body finds, Nepal like country in climate diversity and Nepal land anywhere in the world. We can hve done many things here, but we need political stability and good vision for development. We didn't find visionary leadership in our country Nepal. Our education system makes us talking base work person but for development we need skills and technology.

Ananda: What do you say about diaspora for the new generation?

Arun: Mother and motherland are for better than heaven. If we have dignity of labour and dynamic energy we can do all the best in our motherland.

Anand: Thanks for your suggestion and providing this time for the interview.

Arun: Thank a lot, bye!

I RESEARCH ABOUT ONE OF MY FAVOURITE SINGERS.

ORAL PRESENTATION

Recalling the popular singers of late 90's, the name 'Deepak Bajracharya' can never be missed. Ethnically belonging to the family engaged in sculpture business. Deepak was never interested in family business rather than music.

Deepak had keen interest in music since his childhood. However he did not get much support from his family rather than his mother. His mother would support him a bit just because it was her son's dream and interest and convincing both his parents was a task difficult than actually starting out a career in the music industry.

Most people think one can never make a career out of music and discourage others from doing something out of it. But Deepak believes that with hard work and dedication, one can make a career in this industry and he himself is a living example for it. He is known for giving Nepali audience a latno music taste of music which is still a unique and new advent in the music industry in Nepal.

Apart from being a singer, he has also been chosen as the brand ambassadors of different brands and is also equally engaged in social works. In a delineated video, it is privilege that Deepak has shared his interesting journey of music his achievements, contributions and all the obstacles, he has faced till date. Sharing some of the facts Deepak in the interview, he told that music is his addiction and he achieved all from music.
